

You Voted. Congratulations!

(Now why don't you do something meaningful for your community?)

At the end of the day, if the only way you take part in your democracy is by casting a vote every couple of years, then you're not really participating; you're letting someone else participate for you.

There are many ways to serve your country. But they all begin with you.

Because voting is the least you can do.

Participation: the only thing standing between freedom and fascism.

Created by the Ministry of Propaganda. All materials available for free download at www.TheMOP.info.

